

CLIENT AGREEMENT

Part 1: Discretionary Investment Management Agreement

This Investment Management Agreement (“Agreement”) is by and between bloom inc. (“bloom,” the “Advisor” and sometimes referred to as “we,” “us,” or “our”), an investment advisor registered with the Securities and Exchange Commission (the “SEC”) under the Investment Advisers Act of 1940, as amended (the “Act”), and you (“you” or the “Client”), and relates to all investment advisory and management services provided for the Client (“Services”) via our website (“Website”). By accessing and/or using the Website, you agree to be bound by the terms of this Investment Management Agreement and our Website’s Terms of Use (the “Terms”). Capitalized terms used but not defined herein will have the meanings given to them in the Terms.

Our Relationship

This Agreement sets forth the terms and conditions of the Services, outlines the responsibilities of the parties, and defines the relationship between Client and bloom. You hereby represent and warrant that you have read, agree with, and accept all of the terms and conditions contained in this Agreement and have the authority to act on this account. Your relationship with bloom will be governed by this Agreement and the Terms.

Scope of Services

Bloom provides online, web-based Services to help its clients with their Employer Sponsored Retirement Account(s) (“ESRA”) and Individual Retirement Account(s) (“IRA”), collectively (“Accounts”). Our web-based Services will generate investment allocation recommendations, recommendations of securities to buy and sell, and ongoing rebalancing, when available all based on the information you provide through our Website.

While bloom is an online, web-based Service, we have internal staff involvement in the oversight and management of our Client accounts. Bloom’s advisors may identify and categorize funds available in the Account and bloom occasionally tests and confirms rebalance trades are completed accurately. Our ongoing Clients in the Standard and Unlimited subscriptions have access to ask questions of bloom Financial Advisors via online chat and email. All Clients have access to bloom’s Client Services team for account questions.

Bloom relies on information provided by you in order to generate your recommendations and cannot be held responsible for any recommendations based on inaccurate information. You acknowledge that if you provide false or inaccurate information to bloom, the investment advice provided to you may therefore not align with your investment needs.

Bloom's investment management services are discretionary in nature, which means that we can make trades on your behalf without your approval of each trade. Bloom does not and will not accept possession of your assets, although we may be deemed to have constructive or inadvertent custody of your assets by virtue of our access to your Account. Your assets shall be held by an independent custodian (“Custodian”). In the case of IRAs, it is your responsibility to choose the Custodian and establish your Account. Bloom will not open Accounts on your behalf. Our Services are intended to help you make investment decisions and to assist you in the management of your investments. Our Services are not a substitute for your own participation and informed judgment. You acknowledge that you are responsible for your own investment decisions. You may accept, modify, or reject the portfolio and investment recommendations provided by bloom and make trades at any time in your own account.

Power of Attorney

By using our Services, you expressly authorize bloom to access your Account maintained by third parties, on your behalf as your agent. Bloom will submit information including usernames and passwords that you provide to log you into your Custodian's site. You hereby authorize and permit bloom to use and store information submitted by you through the Services (such as account passwords, user names and security questions) to accomplish the foregoing and to configure our Services so that they are compatible with the third party sites for which you submit your information. For purposes of this Agreement, you grant bloom a limited power of attorney, and appoint bloom as your attorney-in-fact and agent, to access third party sites, and to retrieve and use your information with the full power and authority to do and perform each thing necessary in connection with such activities, as you could do in person. YOU ACKNOWLEDGE AND AGREE THAT WHEN BLOOM IS ACCESSING AND RETRIEVING ACCOUNT INFORMATION FROM THIRD PARTY SITES, BLOOM IS ACTING AS YOUR AGENT, AND NOT AS THE AGENT OF OR ON BEHALF OF THE THIRD PARTY. You understand and agree that our Services are not sponsored or endorsed by any third parties accessible through the Services.

Execution of Transactions

Bloom uses an algorithm to generate your recommendation. The algorithm follows a glidepath approach derived from your timeframe to retirement (desired retirement age minus current age) plus or minus any risk adjustments you make during the online onboarding process or after your account has been established. Bloom's investment committee maintains and monitors the algorithm using general allocation indexes to form the glidepath. Our methodology is based on Modern Portfolio Theory (MPT), which analyzes the historical risk, return, and correlation of different asset classes and determines an efficient way to combine those asset classes to help maximize expected return for a given level of risk. Because the data analyzed is historical data, the risk, return, and correlations of the past may change in the future. Similarly, the expected return of the portfolio is a forward-looking estimate and the future is unknowable, so the actual return may differ from the expected return based on MPT.

For Employer Sponsored Retirement Accounts (ESRAs). Due to the nature of our Services, the allocation our algorithm is attempting to build is limited to effecting transactions only in your ESRA at your Custodian and the options available in a given plan. Therefore, in some cases an asset class our model allocation uses may not be available in your plan and we will have to increase our allocation to a substitute asset class. Our algorithm will choose the lowest cost fund in each asset class based on research that finds cost is the best predictor of future returns; however, the ability to use low-cost funds is limited by a given plan's fund lineup. You may pay higher internal fund fees than if we were permitted to direct transactions to another broker-dealer. Funds are grouped into broad categories. In some cases, these categories may not capture or account for unique strategies implemented by specific funds. Funds are grouped into the category that best fits their strategy. Bloom may not be able to provide 'best execution' for your brokerage transactions. You understand and acknowledge this limitation of our Services.

For Individual Retirement Accounts (IRAs). The allocation our algorithm is attempting to build is based on available Mutual Funds and Exchange-Traded Funds (ETFs) that do not have purchase or sell transaction fees, which may limit our ability to get exposure to all recommended asset classes at some institutions. In addition, some institutions may impose specific trading minimums which may prevent us from recommending or using the lowest cost fund, depending on your account balance. It is important to note, only asset classes in line with bloom's investment philosophy will be considered; not all asset categories available through the institution will be included in bloom's recommendation.

Trading may be required from time to time to meet allocation targets. Additionally, Standard and Unlimited subscription accounts may be rebalanced or reallocated periodically in order to realign with targeted percentages of your recommended asset allocation. The timing of rebalancing or reallocation will occur at our discretion and will be made regardless of market conditions without prior notification. Our algorithms will not change simultaneously with changing market conditions. Transactions may be irrevocable once processed. In the event bloom cannot access your Account (e.g., security access issues, etc.) bloom may at its discretion automatically convert your account to a non-managed advisory account ("Self Managed") where we will provide you with investment recommendations so that you can implement them yourself. Additionally, you may elect to have your account Self Managed by selecting this option in your bloom account. You may revert back to a managed account at any time you are still a client through your bloom account, as long as bloom continues to be able to access your Account.

If there are discrepancies in the algorithm application and intent for a given account, bloom may override the algorithm. If there are restrictions or fees associated with transactions or future allocations imposed by the record keepers or custodians (e.g., short-term trading fee, or some accounts, for example, only allow us to direct future contributions to a limited number of funds) we may override the algorithm.

You should update your bloom account promptly when your financial situation, goals, objectives, or needs change. Should you decide to make a change to your existing risk preference, you may do so through your bloom account profile and we will make the changes for you with the next rebalance of your account. You can contact your ESRA or IRA custodian directly at any time to immediately change your investment allocation.

PART 3: Investment Notices

We are excited to get started and we thank you for your business. We want to mention a few things right at the start of our relationship:

- Your investments are subject to loss of principal and are not guaranteed.
- Past performance is no guarantee of future results. Just because an investment performed well in the past does not mean it will do well going forward. And vice versa.
- We don't control the investment markets. Your Account will go up and down in value based on what happens in the markets. We do not make any guarantees your Account will grow.
- When you sell an investment, you might get back less than what you paid for it. You should not be investing money you may need in the short term.
- Investing in the stock market carries significant risk. We believe you are rewarded over the long term for taking that risk.

- Investing in bonds is often thought to be ‘safer’ but also carries significant risks. For example, there is credit risk, default risk, interest rate risk, liquidity risk, economic risk, and company and industry event risk. Bond investments can lose money. Do not assume that bonds in your portfolio protect you from risk.
- The information you provide to us is important. We will create an initial recommended allocation based on that information you provide to us. It is your responsibility to promptly update us of any changes to this information.
- You may adjust this initial recommended allocation to be more or less aggressive. YOU HAVE THE FINAL RESPONSIBILITY FOR THE INITIAL SELECTION AND APPROVAL OF THE APPROPRIATE PORTFOLIO FOR YOU.
- You have a very limited number of investment options in your ESRA. We work with those limited options to create an appropriate allocation for you. As with all diversified portfolios, each year some positions will perform better than others.
- If you choose to be more conservative or more aggressive than we believe is appropriate for you, we may suggest you do not hire bloom.
- You will always have the authority, at any time, to login to your ESRA or IRA directly and to make changes to your allocation or move your entire account balance into a money market or stable value option. Becoming a bloom Client does not restrict your ability to override bloom’s recommendations and make your own changes to your investment allocations.
- YOU MAY CONTACT YOUR CUSTODIAN DIRECTLY AT ANY TIME TO IMMEDIATELY CHANGE YOUR INVESTMENT ALLOCATION.
- Neither bloom, inc., nor its advisors or employees, provide legal or tax advice. If such advice is required, you should seek the advice of your attorney and/or tax advisor.
